Race Report

Benign conditions greeted the riders for this week's test of fitness. Of particular interest was the question as to how both father and son Rossendell would perform both riding fixed gear time trial bikes. The results provide the answer. A pretty good effort for an undulating course.

Again Mark Bowden proved his time trialing prowess ably assisted by his (now second hand and probably available at a good price) Cervelo beast.

Times were generally a little slower than the same race in November but one could expect the curse of the Christmas ham is still with us for a few weeks yet. Well done to all who raced and thanks particularly to Karen Pimm for her expertise and Dale Carney for his technological exploits with the timing system.

Age standards not applied and no prizes given for the race.
